MUHAMMAD ANAS SOHAIL

I am currently in my second semester, pursuing a degree in computer science from the University of Karachi. My primary goal is to leverage the skills I have acquired in web development. With a strong foundation in programming and an understanding of core concepts, I am ready to explore the world of web development. I have honed my expertise in languages such as HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, and I am eager to dive deeper into front-end frameworks like React or Angular. Additionally, I am keen on expanding my knowledge in back-end development using languages such as Python or Node.js. Through practical projects and continuous learning, I am determined to enhance my web development skills and become a valuable asset in the ever-evolving field of technology.
